What did you like best about how the course was taught?

Comments

I liked how he didn't rely on powerpoints all the time to teach the information

I liked the videos and the way he gave clear examples to help us better understand the material.

I do well with lectures and so the lecture-style was well-suited to my style of learning.

Open discussion was great

The reading choices were excellent. Even the historical pieces picked for the intro, we're surprisingly fun and interesting to read. They were organized very well and transitioned into each other well. I really enjoyed how the class was very interactive, involving our opinions and thoughts as we progressed through the lecture. It really helped form a better understanding of the material.

I liked best how each quiz was tailored and edited based on our feedback. I've never had a college professor listen to students like that before.

The way every topic is constructed and prepared.

A good mix of teaching techniques, my favorite of which was the review at the beginning of every class even if I was late like every day lol.

If you were teaching this course, what would you do differently?

Comments

I would have more points in the curriculum.

I don't know, I think he did a great job.

I would have more in-class discussions, though there wasn't a lot of time for them.

Id change how students presented and maybe make them have a powerpoint

I think I would include a little more group work and then try to switch up the people in each group so that we aren't always discussing with the same people.

I will probably use more in-class pop quizzes to help students keep on the track.

I think they did well Im not sure what I would change.
